Coach John McDonnell and his Razorback Track & XC teams 1972 – 2008

At his retirement in 2008, only four NCAA institutions had won more than 42 men's national championships. Southern California, UCLA, Stanford, and Oklahoma State are the only schools whose entire men's athletic programs have won more than McDonnell's track and cross country teams.

A triple crown is a national title in cross country, indoor and outdoor track in the same academic year. McDonnell's teams won 5 triple crowns. Only one other team has ever achieved a triple crown and, then, only three times.

42

His teams won 42 NCAA titles. Including, 12-consecutive indoor track championships (1984-1995), the longest string of national titles by any school in any sport in collegiate history.
